Project Selection

Things to Do in April/May

STEP 1

Form a Team

- if you are planning to take FYP, you should now look for groupmates
- For FYT student or student who would like to work on “1 person” FYP project, you can skip this step

STEP 2

View FYP Project and Description on FYP Management System (FYPMS)

- login with your ITSC account and password (if you encounter any difficulty, please check with eehelp@ust.hk)
- approach project supervisors for more information and express interest

STEP 3

Bid for Project at FYPMS

- Supervisors commit projects

any project yet until a supervisor do so. **
You may wish to contact the supervisor directly and ask him/her to commit his/her project to you.

When you bid for a project, you are making a commitment to undertake the project. This is the case regardless of the priority that you assign to it. The priority only matters if the supervisor decides to contact you before committing. However, some supervisors might not do that.

Capstone/Final Year Project

- Important part of your engineering education. Universal. Without it, your engineering education is incomplete.
- Gateway to your career and your first job as an engineer. Companies look for project experience in fresh graduates. Add value to your CV!
- Help you discover your passion within ECE/CPEG and gain confidence in your engineering education
- Help you build up your soft skills; teamwork, time and project management, project planning and execution, communication skills...

Capstone/Final Year Project

- What counts as capstone/FYP ?
- Does the project have to fulfill certain criteria ?
- It is NOT capstone/FYP if your project:
 - entirely outside your discipline (ECE/CPEG)
 - does not utilize a good portion of your knowledge accumulated through the ECE/CPEG coursework
 - requires you to learn entirely new “advance” knowledge, instead
 - research project unless you work on UROP or FYT
 - does not add value to your education (does not challenge you)

Capstone/Final Year Project

- Requires consolidating and applying knowledge & skills LEARNED in your ECE/CPEG courses to SOLVE PRACTICAL PROBLEMS
- Comes in two flavors
 - FYP: Design Project (Engineering design)
 - FYT: Thesis (Engineering research; hypothesis-driven)
- Chosen from a list of projects offered by the faculty
- Can be self-initiated/proposed by you (highly encouraged)
- Should have 3 SMART objectives (specific, measurable, achievable, relevant, and time-bound)

Tips for a successful FYP

- Have a plan
- Identify your area of interest
 - Be proactive; talk to professors and ask key questions
- Identify teammates who share the same passion or interest with you
- Identify a supervisor whom your team can work with
- Have your SMART objectives
- Own your project. Supervisor is there to guide/assist you

Grading Elements

- Project Formulation & Execution
- Proposal Report
 - WHAT you will do ? And WHY (Significance) ?
 - Must have clear and measurable (SMART) objectives
 - HOW you will do it ? PLAN ?
 - ANTICIPATE challenges and prepare BACKUP PLAN
- Progress Report
 - WHAT you HAVE DONE to date (RESULTS!)
- Final Report
 - A complete account of your project

Grading Elements

- Bear in mind that engineering is not only about executing and delivering projects but also capturing projects in written reports (documentation)
- 50% of your FYP grade comes from your supervisor based on how well you performed your project and whether you regularly met and updated your supervisor
- 50% of your FYP grade comes from judges who have no information on how well you performed the project except for what you have presented in your progress and final reports
 - You might have done an excellent job but if you don't communicate your results and achievements clearly in your written reports then you will lose a portion of your grade

*Supervisor grades only proposal report whereas judges and reader grade progress and final reports.

- Monthly reports and video/poster presentations must be submitted/completed but do not directly contribute to the overall grade.
- Penalties apply for late submissions including monthly reports.

- To ensure the quality of the report, you are strongly encouraged to meet with your allocated Communication Tutor and have your report reviewed before submission.
- As an FYP/FYT student, you are required to meet with your Communication Tutor twice to check your reports before the submission of the Final Report.
- Please check with a Communication Tutor if you are unsure of any specific case in your reports.
- Penalty: any of the following items lead to the lowering of your FYP letter grade (e.g. from A to B) or failure of the FYP:
- Missing or invalid monthly reports (invalid means inadequately filled)
- Any late submission of the proposal or other reports, including monthly reports
- Plagiarism refers to paraphrasing or quoting of other people's work and/or using others' ideas without appropriate acknowledgement. Be extra careful about rephrasing or excessive quoting from other sources and make sure to cite all sources. Reports will be checked through Turnitin. Those suspected of containing plagiarized material, including unreferenced diagrams, will be referred to the department for investigation and will be penalized accordingly, including failure of the FYP.

FYP pitfalls arise due to

- Not having regular meeting with your Supervisor
 - It's your responsibility to contact your supervisor and schedule regular meetings
- Poor PLANNING
- Good planning but poor EXECUTION
- Lack of DISCIPLINE & TEAMWORK
- Lack of COMMUNICATION
- Good execution but poor REPORTS
 - No credit for your work done if NOT in your REPORT
 - Inadequate RESULTS in your REPORT
